

An Oasis in a Busy City

Located in bustling downtown Flushing, New York, Queens Botanical Garden is a 39-acre public garden and cultural institution that serves more than 241,500 people annually.

A Botanical History in Queens

Our origins are with the 1939-40 New York World's Fair. Originally located across the street in Flushing Meadows-Corona Park and known as the "Gardens on Parade" exhibit, Queens Botanical Garden was incorporated in 1946 by a motivated group of volunteers from the community who maintained the displays. Moved to the current Main Street location in time for the 1964 World's Fair, QBG soon blossomed into a welcoming venue for environmental education and cultural programming.

QUEENS BOTANICAL GARDEN is the place where people, plants, and cultures meet. Adopting a bench supports educational programming and the general care of this beautiful oasis.

Make Your Mark!

Bench adoption allows you to leave a lasting imprint at the Garden. Whether in honor of a loved one, to commemorate a colleague's retirement, or to promote your business, adopting a bench supports educational programming and the general care of this beautiful oasis. Your donation of $5,000 for a bench adoption is fully tax-deductible. Multiple donors (e.g. family, friends, co-workers) may contribute through honorary or memorial funds.

You Write the Inscription

Your bench may be inscribed with the message of your choice. Each bench has three back slats. Total of 60 characters per slat – use one, two or three slats. Once approved, it takes approximately eight weeks for the bench to be installed.

World's Fair-Style Benches

QBG is pleased to work with Kenneth Lynch & Sons, fabricator of the original 1939 World's Fair Bench, to create replica benches using modern, sustainable materials. 1964-style benches (pictured above and on the cover) are available for adoption throughout the Garden. There are a very limited number of 1939-style benches available at this time.
